Diagnosis of malignant growth is based on detection of tumor cells in tissue or secretion of tumor-specific proteins that may be detected in blood. We analyzed both tumor marker (TM) expression and other diagnostic tests, as well as Dukes' stages in 218 patients with colorectal adenocarcinoma. TM was measured in blood after surgical resection and also before radical therapy. TM was positive in 167 (74.5%) patients and reached a level above 10 micrograms/L in 53 (24.0%). A simultaneous analysis of the markers cEA, rEA, CA19-9, CA125, CA50 and CA15-3 revealed a sensitivity of 73.6%, specificity of 62.1%, positive predictive value of 43.7% and negative predictive value of 88.4% for TM. An increased risk of distant metastases was observed in patients with TM elevated above 10 micrograms/L. In combination with other diagnostic tests, especially colonoscopy, tumor marker analysis may increase the rate of early diagnosis and improve the follow-up of these patients.@bib0014].
